Microblading for Brows

Prices starting at $550.00

Consult price $100.00 can be applied to treatment cost. Microblading is a type of micropigmentation that is created with a manual, precision tool that is made up of small needles forming a "micro-blade". The microblading technique is conducted mostly in the top layer of skin, the epidermis, and gives a more natural appearance of real hair strands in the brow than the traditional, older forms of cosmetic tattooing. Because the nature of the epidermis is in a constant state of shedding, the implanted pigment will only be retained for 1-2 years depending on skin type, daily activities, medications, etc.

Advantages of this semi-permanent tattoo on the brows are better precision, natural shaping, natural coloring, and revision as trends and skin change. Also, because the depth of skin for microblading remains very superficial, topical anesthetic is able to bring discomfort to a minimum.

Microblading is a generally a three-part procedure. You will have your initial consult and then first treatment, 4-6 weeks later you will have the touch-up treatment. Some clients may require additional treatments for more sparse brow lines, skin type, medications, or just preference. The initial consult begins with a consultation to discuss your personal preferences along with a thorough examination of your natural brow line, bone structure, and face shape to create a brow line customized specifically for your face. The first treatment is carefully mapped and measured, the brow line is numbed and the microblading portion follows. The second treatment is considered the "touch-up session" because it is critical to finishing the procedure. Reinforcing the original foundation from the first treatment, the pigment is layered and revised for a completed appearance and also for the longevity of the tattoo as a whole. Some clients opt for a 'third treatment' if the skin heals lighter and softer than average due to medications, underlying medical conditions, denser areas of skin, scar tissue, or if the client just prefers a bolder appearance.

Subnovii

Prices Starting at $750.00

Plasma technology takes advantage of the fine layer of ionized gas, or plasma, that exists along the surface of your skin. Plasma devices emit energy that instantly sublimates a precise spot on the skin. A sealed wound is created, and heat is delivered below the skin to kick start fibroblast activity, which stimulates collagen, elastin and hyaluronic acid. The tip of the plasma device never actually touches the skin - it's the power of molecular physics that gives this treatment its magic.
